

ACTM April Webinar Speaker Extracts

Bio – Dr Luis Furuya Kanamori

Dr Furuya Kanamori is a medically trained clinical epidemiologist, Senior Lecturer and Amplify Fellow at the University of Queensland, School of Public Health. His research focuses on optimisation of vaccination strategies by dose sparing to reduce costs and increase uptake, while maintaining vaccine efficacy and safety; and the implementation of decision support systems for personalised risk assessment.

Bio –Dr Sarah McGuinness

Dr Sarah McGuinness is an infectious diseases physician, lecturer and researcher based at Monash University and Alfred Health in Melbourne, Australia. Her clinical and research interests span travel medicine, tropical medicine and infectious diseases epidemiology and prevention. She runs a tertiary hospital-based travel clinic and regularly presents at local and international travel medicine conferences.